All accomplishments in life are made through cooperation —labor with capital — church with state—judiciary with legislature—and pupils with faculty —in this book, the yearbook of George Washington High School, 1938, we show hands— the hands whose careful guidance, whose untiring helpfulness and interest lead us ever forward—we show the ideals and ambitions, the spirit of G. W.— our high school grows!

kroes ficklin

There she sits—a small, cheerful, busy little woman—surrounded by a class of students, each of whom loves her for something different—one for her sincere, ready smile; another for the friendly greeting with which she meets everyone; still another for her democratic spirit toward all.

She has taught over forty years, and her loyalty to the school is another of the characteristics for which we love her. She began teaching in a girls' school and for dedication

seventeen years was in the elementary department. Then she took up a position in the high school department. She taught also in the old Alexandria High School, which her uncle established.

She studied at the Mt. Vernon Institute and later at the Berlitz School of Languages. The pupils of her English 6 class (September, '37-February, '38) will remember a conversation in Italian held with one of the pupils. . . . She obtained both her B. A. and M. A. degrees at George Washington University.

Her trip abroad the summer of 1927 has furnished many interesting discussions in classes with "first-hand" knowledge. During her years of teaching she has coached plays and sponsored the well-known Theodore Ficklin Literary Society (named for her father and the oldest club in the School), and has also headed the English Department.

We are proud to dedicate our 1938 Compass to her — our teacher, helper, friend—Miss Kroes Ficklin.

what goes to make up your annual

"The layout"—tiring work since it must be almost painfully exact—each page must be as it will be when it comes from the printing press—accurate measurements made—careful sketches showing the placement of write ups and pictures! One hundred fifty pages—each one carefully laid out and the pictures drawn in.

Typists worked on seemingly endless page write ups and layouts—fingers were literally worn to the bone on the keys of the typewriters—and still the pages came! Almost fifty thousand words were written—making three hundred thousand times that fingers touched the keys.

Two hundred dollars for photographs, which by the way, were almost entirely done by the students—one thousand four hundred eighty dollars for five hundred fifty copies printed—a grand total of one thousand six hundred eighty-nine dollars for a book whose selling price of two dollars is lower than it's ever been before! This money was collected in fifty-cent installments, and you can imagine the time which was spent for counting and collecting.

Clatter and drone—you might as well not talk in the presence of a printing press—you'll never be heard! Day after day they roared on, while bales of paper were presented to its maw, to emerge into pages and pages and pages of the Compass — '38! The printing was done by Newell and Cole Printing Company in collaboration with the Washington Planograph Company.

Each element in a chemical compound plays an individual part in the formation of that compound—careful work is necessary lest the whole experiment be ruined. Each section of the Annual was as carefully combined by the workers as the required parts of a delicate chemistry experiment. Outstanding for their work were:

The Business Staff—Its chiefs, John Spittle and Paul Lipps; its adviser, Mr. Lindsey, and the many assistants who helped in the soliciting of ads and the counting of the subscriptions—the school owes them a debt of gratitude. Without the business staff there would be no advertising, no subscriptions,—in short, no annual.

The Editorial Staff—with Robert Marshall, who was here, there and everywhere, in all three sections, patient with the slow ones, helpful wherever someone was having a hard time—Margo Sellers, who put in grueling hours editing club write-ups and could be seen with a pencil behind her ear sitting at a desk covered with layouts every afternoon—Edith Cuson, who put the spirit and drive and action of Cadets into words—Peter Drury, who brought the athletic field into the athletic section with his sports talk—Bob Shumway, who prowled around with his magic black box, snapping pictures of unsuspecting people with unholy glee—Helen Prisaznick, Helen Papiroski, Betsy Litaker, Eleanor King, who typed endless copy—Martha Alexander, Frank Luckett, and Russell Kranzfelder, who transferred undergrad life to paper so vividly—Janice Matheny and Elizabeth Jones, whose literary efforts helped fill the pages—Neil Wolford and William Whitney, whose magic pencils beautified the cover and pages of the Annual.

Miss Butzner — rushing around with a handful of copy in one fist and a sheaf of photographs in the other—Miss Rawls proof reading and rewriting none too exquisitely clean papers—Mrs. Varner and her journalism classes, busily collecting Senior write-ups.

Making the Layouts

Things That Make the Wheels Go 'Round,

In Conference

Hands — hands strong and muscular—grimy hands working with bricks and mortar to bring to completion the building whose plan shaped itself under the sensitive fingers of an architect—the calloused palms of the riveter—the paint-flecked hands of the painter—the hand of the construction engineer — the hands of all these, and many others, who worked so that the hands of future men may be taught the skill and dexterity which the world so needs today.

our building evolves

Sunlight sifts through the long windows of the auditorium—

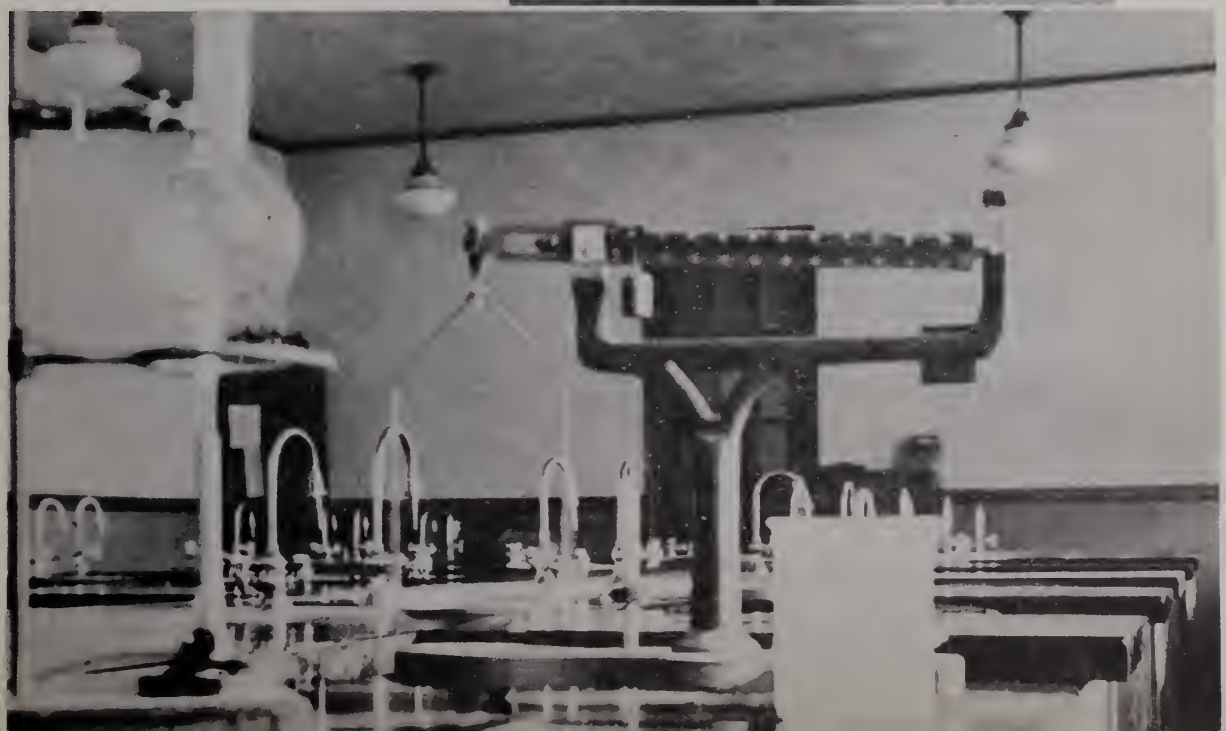
And outlines sharply the desks and tables of the school room—

Lends an aura of newness to the job of typewriting—

"Whitewashes" the parapet of the approach—

Softens the hand outlines of desks and bulletins—

While it transforms the commonplace "lab."



Action . . . arc lights bringing into sharp relief the eager faces of the cheering students, are reflected in the shining band instruments that blare out a challenge to the opposing team—silhouette clearly the cheer leaders who follow the game with rousing yells, applauding the play of our opponents by cheering our team on—night game at G. W.!

A light about the door—and many lights within—typical of the guiding and enlightening spirit of education in our high school.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

Our faculty—in whose hands lies our education, whose sure guidance gives us the confidence we need in the world today—hands that have handled textbooks many years, and hands new to chalk and eraser—kind hands, ready to help at every turn—willing hands, hands that give their services indefatigably—confident, sincere, fair and square in everything—hands in which we may safely lay our hopes, our ambitions, our ideals—secure in the knowledge that they are in the steadfast care of our friends and helpers.

Henry T. Moncure, Principal

Mr. Moncure, the "man behind the voice" of George Washington High School, was born in Williamsburg, Virginia. He received his education in Miss Hensley's Private School and later at Mathew Whaley public school. He received his B. A. and M. A. at William and Mary College. The war came about this time, and he joined the R. O. T. C. in college. He then taught until 1924, when he became principal of Jefferson School. In 1925 he was made principal of Alexandria High School, and in 1935 of George Washington High School.

In reference to education he makes the following statement: "If America is to go forward, education must be given modern tools. If the 'truth is everywhere the same,' Alexandria's children should be given an equal opportunity to discover it."

Mr. Orville W. Addington

"Now, that's right, or is it?" is the usual query of Mr. Addington after writing a problem on the board. When asked his opinion of assemblies, he said, "I think the assemblies have been good and bad, mostly good. They have been instructive as well as interesting." Mr. Addington attended Emory and Henry College.

Miss Adele Aichelman

"Tomorrow, class, have your units on Greece finished," states Miss Aichelman, a history and civics teacher. She was educated at Barnard College, Columbia University and Juanita College. Although she has taught English, she says her favorite is History. Miss Aichelman stated that the principles of the student government should be more firmly in the freshman's mind.

Miss Margaret Cox

"I like G. W. better than any place I've ever taught," says Miss Cox from Randolph Macon Women's College. She has taught at Lynchburg and at Jefferson School.

She plans to go to George Washington University this summer. Her favorite subject is mathematics, thus her main ambition to be a statistician.

Sergeant Martin Case

Sergeant Case is from Ohio and has served in the Army for thirty years. He has been stationed at Fort Belvoir, but retired last year. Sergeant Case saw service in the World War, the Philippines, and in Mexico. He has no special hobby, except that of training the boys and girls of our Cadet Corps.

Miss Carmen Andujar

"Mas vale saber que haber," says Miss Andujar, the quaint little Spanish teacher. This means "Knowledge is better than wealth." She was born in Mayaguez, Puerto Rico. She attended the University of Puerto Rico, Radford State Teachers' College, Columbia University, and George Washington University. She has taught in Alexandria for eleven years.

Miss Nancy Butzner

Miss Butzner should be justly proud of this book, because much of the credit should go to her as faculty adviser. Vivacious, and with an endless amount of energy, she "gets things done."

She has been teaching for four years, and has a most interesting hobby—being with people and studying their reactions and emotions.

Miss Dolly Callahan

"Oh! I could bat your heads in," says Miss Callahan to her civics students. She has been teacching for nineteen years and is a graduate of George Washington University. If she could get the pupils out of the back row seats, it would be a great accomplishment.

Miss Ruby Crumley

Miss Crumley has a pleasing personality and can "take a joke" and because of this, she is frequently teased by her students about being from the mountains of Tennessee.

Since she has been here, she has sponsored the Commercial Club and paper besides teaching Shorthand and Typing.

Mrs. Ruth Elgin
History

Miss Mary Waller Dickinson

Miss Dickinson, a member of the Business-Professional Women's Club, has been teaching in Alexandria for seven years. She received her B. A. degree from Fredericksburg State Teachers' College, and her M. A. from the University of Virginia. She spends her spare time in school preparing the Contestants' Club members for the state contests at Charlottesville.

Miss Kroes Ficklin

Miss Ficklin is a native of Alexandria. She is now completing her forty-fifth year as teacher in the schools of Alexandria.

She loves the out-of-doors which explains her hobby of picnicking around a campfire.

Miss Ficklin is leaving us in June, and we wish her good luck always.

Miss Sue Florance

"If you don't stop putting that snake down that girl's back, I'll take it away from you," warns Miss Florance. She was born in Alexandria, where she attended St. Mary's Academy. She also studied at the University of Virginia, George Washington University, and William and Mary College.

Her hobbies are nature, reading, and music.

Mrs. Margaret Forshee

Mrs. Forshee, who has taught in Alexandria for thirteen years, attended the University of Virginia and Miami University. She enjoys the Marionette Club, her hobby, because the students take so much interest in it. She thinks the Student Council is wonderful because it gives the students an opportunity to express their opinions.

Mrs. Ruth Elgin

Mrs. Elgin, who was born in Roanoke, Virginia, attended George Washington University, University of Virginia, and Harrisonburg State Teachers' College. She began teaching at the age of eighteen in a rural school of one room. Her favorite subjects are history and civics. She stated that the pupils in this school are good all-around students.

Miss Louise Dinwiddie

Miss Dinwiddie, who is usually saying, "Please be quiet in the library," is the school Librarian. She has lived in Alexandria all her life. She attended the Alexandria High School and later attended Westhampton College and the University of Virginia. She writes for numerous papers and journals.

Mr. Robert Garner
English

Mr. Robert Garner

Mr. Garner has been a member of the Alexandria faculty for four years, and has been a teacher for the past fifteen years. His favorite sport and hobby is tennis. His favorite subject is English. Mr. Garner is now Athletic Publicity Director of the G. W. H. S., besides teaching English and Math.

Mr. Maurice Given

Mr. Given, who has been Athletic Director for seven years, up until last February, came here from Vinton High School.

He attended Roanoke College where he obtained his degree. During his stay in Alexandria Coach Given has produced on the average of at least one championship team a year.

Mr. Maurice Given Physical Education | Mr. Leslie Grover Commercial | Col. Alvin Gutensohn Cadets

Mr. Leslie Grover

Mr. Grover was born in Maryland and was educated at Western Maryland College, John Hopkins University, and American University. He has been teaching for five years. As a hobby he likes to play tennis. When asked his opinion on some phase of school life, he said that the Student Council seems to work very effectively.

Col. Alvin G. Gutensohn

"I think the Cadet Corps and Band are made up of as fine a group of young people as it has been my pleasure to meet," said Colonel Gutensohn, present P. M. S. and T. He is a graduate of West Point, and has been in the army for a period of thirty-one years.

His hobby is woodworking.

Mr. William J. Hillman Science | Miss Lucy Houston Physical Education

Mr. William J. Hillman

Mr. Hillman, instructor and Student Council sponsor, is a graduate of Emory and Henry College. When asked to give his opinion of the Student Council, he said, "I think it is a very capable organization. It is obvious that it is more efficient than anything the faculty could devise." He has been teaching in Alexandria since 1932.

Miss Lucy Houston

After graduating from the Alexandria High School, Miss Houston attended the Fredericksburg State Teachers' College, and the University of Wisconsin.

She is completing her fourth year of teaching in Alexandria schools, having taught in Winston-Salem before.

She thinks there are a lot of things yet to be done here, but with so fine a group to work with, one should not find it difficult.

Miss Garnett Hundley

Between intervals of directing a play and coaching cheer leaders the diminutive Miss Hundley said, "The absentee and tardy checking system of this school is splendidly planned and executed." She attended Lynchburg College, University of Virginia, and William and Mary College. Before coming to our school, Miss Hundley taught in West Virginia.

Mrs. Adelaide Hutto

"Why don't you study your lesson?" asks Mrs. Hutto, to her Latin pupils. She has been teaching for seven years. Her only and favorite subject this past semester is Latin. As a hobby Mrs. Hutto enjoys housekeeping but says it takes a great deal of her time.

Miss Laura Humphries

"All my life I've hoped I would either become a nurse or a teacher," drawled Miss Humphries, who comes from North Carolina.

She has taught Home Economics for two years at G. W. Her hobbies are crocheting, knitting, and the movies. Her ambition is to achieve a Master's Degree at Columbia University.

English

Mrs. Ellen Ticer King

Mrs. King has been teaching for seven years. Her favorite subjects to teach are English and History.

She has two things to accomplish, that is to learn how to keep house and how to fish. She said she had to learn the latter in self defense. We take it that Mr. King is a fisherman.

Miss Helen Iddings

Miss Iddings attended Hanover College in Indiana and the University of Iowa. Her favorite subject is mathematics, which she has been teaching for a number of years. Before teaching here she taught in Illinois and Clifton Forge.

Her hobby is travelling in her car.

Miss Evelyn Jones

Miss Jones, who combines Science and Dramatics, was born in Irvington, Virginia. She was educated at the Fredericksburg State Teachers' College and at the University of Virginia. She thinks the Student Council at G. W. is excellent. She said it is the only organization in the school that is actually governed by the students.

Miss Charlene Kiracofe

"Get out of my way," barked Miss Kiracofe as I began my delightful interview.

Her favorite subject is Latin, although she teaches English.

She is usually remembered for a characteristic remark, "Get me a ride home this afternoon."

Mr. Irving Lindsey
Mathematics

Mr. Irving Lindsey

Mr. Lindsey, host of the daily "tea party" at G. W., was born in Alexandria. He attended George Washington University and the University of Virginia. Besides Mathematics, his hobby is reading books on Philosophy, which he later tries out on the students. He says, "All things considered, I think the Student Council is doing a great job."

Miss Dorothy McDaniel

Miss McDaniel, head of the Commercial Department, was born in Lynchburg, Virginia. She attended the Fredericksburg State Teachers' College, Bowling Green Business University, and the University of Virginia. She has been teaching in Alexandria for six years.

Mrs. Catherine Malone

"Come in here!" trills Mrs. Malone in high staccato, to her Glee Club people, "and sing your do, re, mi's." Our singing lady went to the University of Nebraska and has taught for five years. Music is her hobby, and it is reported that she would rather wave a baton at a Glee Club meeting than anything else.

Capt. John McKenzie

Captain McKenzie, who was with us for only one semester, was P. M. S. and T. of the Cadet Corps.

He was Tactical Officer at St. John's Military Academy and at Georgia Military Academy, and Assistant Commandant at Western Military Academy and at Marist College.

Captain McKenzie affected the organization of the band at G. W.

Mr. Archer Millican

Mr. Millican, better known to the students as "Pop," attended Randolph Macon College and John Hopkins University. He has been teaching for twenty-one years. When asked about the "Big Apple," he stated that it was a poor excuse for a good time.

Mr. Archer Millican Science — Miss Corinne Morecock Commercial — Miss Genevieve Park French

Miss Corinne Morecock

Miss Morecock comes from North Carolina. She has been teaching for seven years. Her favorite subjects are French and Business Practice.

Her hobby, horseback riding, will be put to good use this summer at her home in Halifax, North Carolina.

Mrs. Mary Parker Home Economics — Miss Euneta Pratt History

Miss Mary Thomas Rawls

That smiling face in Room 303 is that of Miss Rawls, our new math teacher, who was born in Ivor, Virginia. She is a graduate of Farmville State Teachers' College and did graduate work at William and Mary College. She helped with the publication of this book and stated that she thoroughly enjoyed the work.

Mr. F. Vaughan Pultz

"I don't look like I have a sense of humor, but when you get to know me, you will find out."

Mr. Pultz has been teaching for twenty-six years. The subjects he likes best are bookkeeping and business arithmetic.

Mr. Pultz thinks that G. W. has a well directed student council.

Miss Genevieve Park

"Quelle personalite!" Elle est petite, be'la et aimable! It's now our turn to "dit"—so we say. Miss Park went to the University of Alabama and the Sorbonne University in Paris. She has been teaching for six years, and her favorite subject is French. Her hobby is swimming. This summer she plans to tour California and Mexico.

Mrs. Mary Parker

Upon asking Mrs. Parker about her favorite hobby, she replied, "There's nothing better than a good book on a rainy day."

This good-natured, auburn-haired teacher has been teaching for nine years. Her favorite subjects, enjoyed by the girls of her classes as well, are cooking and sewing.

Miss Euneta Pratt

Miss Pratt, who is quick to think and act, is the sponsor of the Pep Club, as well as the teacher of American History.

She was born in North Carolina where she attended High Point High School. She also attended Greensboro College and George Washington University.

She has many hobbies, one of which is collecting Chinese fans.

Miss Agnes Reynolds

Miss Reynolds, who teaches English and History, as well as sponsors the Spelling Club, was educated at Georgia State College (and she still has an accent!), George Washington University, and the University of Virginia. Her hobby is oil painting.

Miss Dorothy Snedegar
Mathematics

Mrs. Harriet Shiek

Mrs. Shiek, who came from Clearwater, Florida, was also with us for only one semester. Before teaching here she taught at Gunston Hall. She attended college in Nebraska, and taught in the Commercial Department of our school.

Miss Dorothy Snedegar

After graduating from high school in Roanoke, Miss Snedegar attended Farnville State Teachers' College and Duke University. She said that although the attitude at athletic contests has been greatly improved, it can be improved even more. Playing tennis and collecting poetry are Miss Snedegar's hobbies.

Miss Mary Thurman

"Be sure to cover your typewriters before you leave." These are the words of Miss Thurman, the new typing and shorthand teacher in G. W. She was born in Kentucky and received her education at the University there.

When asked what she did with her spare time, she remarked, "When I'm in Kentucky, I go horseback riding."

Mr. George W. Tyler

Mr. Tyler, who has acted as joint coach since February, has been teaching at our school for only a year; he received his B. S. degree at Emory and Henry College and his M. A. degree at Duke University. When asked what his hobby is, he at once said sports. He enjoys teaching Mathematics better than any other subject.

Mr. Frank Williams
Physical Education

Mrs. Mary Rowe Varner

Mrs. Varner was born in Fredericksburg, Virginia, where she attended the State Teachers' College. Since her hobby is newspapers, her favorite subject is journalism. She spends most of her spare time looking for news for the school page. She stated that G. W. students are fortunate in having such a modern school with excellent equipment.

Mr. Frank (Jeff) Williams

"Come on and get around the track twice," yells Jeff, former University of Richmond football star. Jeff, a native of Alexandria, became assistant coach at G. W. in 1936.

His leisure hours, since the age of six, have been filled by playing basketball—now professional.

His summer will be spent at the University of Richmond.

in memoriam

Douglas Peyton Carter, a classmate of the Seniors of this year, was born on April 3, 1920. He was an ambitious and intelligent boy, trying hard to achieve the higher things in life.

On October 14, 1937, he died in the Emergency Hospital with a tumor on the brain, having been operated on a few days before.

On this day he left his many friends and classmates who still mourn his parting greatly.

DORRIS ALLEN

To Be Stenographer

Doris was one of our most intelligent students. She took a very active part in the Spanish Club and was a member of the Cadet Corps and Commercial Club.

JAMES WILLIAM ALLEN

Ambition To Be Accountant

James, who has blue eyes and brown hair, plans to attend Wood's Commercial School with the ambition of becoming an accountant.

VIRGINIA HENDERSON ALLEN

To Be Typist

Virginia, who has blond hair and blue eyes, plans to graduate in February. After graduation she expects to enter a business school and further her ambitions of becoming a typist; we hope she is successful in her aims. Although she indulged in few activities, her quiet charm was well liked and remembered in the school.

ELWOOD LEE ARMSTRONG

Another Babe Ruth

We shall all miss Elwood's playing on the football and baseball teams, and if work in high school can be used as a standard, we imagine that he will soon fulfill his ambition of becoming a Big League baseball player.

He plans to attend a Prep school after graduation from G. W.

DAVID BISHOP ARNOLD, JR.

To Be Accountant

David plans after graduation to attend the Benjamin Franklin School of Accountancy. His ambition is to be an accountant, which is his father's profession. He has been active in the Pep Club and Cadets and is a very good singer with the Glee Club. He has brown eyes and hair and is a very attractive member of the senior class.

PENELOPE ANNE BARTON

To Attend St. Mary's

Penelope, a pretty blonde, who has taken a College Preparatory Course in high school, has been active in the Pep Club, Latin Club, and Cadets.

She plans to attend St. Mary's Academy, but her vocation is as yet indefinite.

HAZEL LOUISE BAKER

Oh! To Be A Teacher

Hazel, who was valedictorian of the February Class, plans to secure a position when finishing school; then she is going to be a teacher. Hazel, who has blue eyes and brown hair, is a very intelligent young lady. During her high school career she has been active in the Reading Club.

EDWARD LEE BOYER

To Enter Engineering School

Edward, who graduated in February, has brown hair and brown eyes.

Edward's ambition is to receive an engineering degree and to become an engineer of note. During his high school years he took a general school course.

HELEN LOUISE BUTLER

To Attend Business School

Helen's ambition is to become a really good stenographer to some important man; to further this ambition she is planning to attend Wood's Commercial School in Washington. She has blond hair and gray eyes; she was a member in various school activities; among them are the Glee Club, French Club, Spelling Club, Cadets, President of Home Room, and Pep Club.

JOHN JARVIS BUTLER, IV

Ambitious To Become A Doctor

A doctor with red hair—that is what Jarvis intends to be. After attending U. M. D. and the University of Virginia, he will begin a medical career. During his high school years, he has been active in the Cadet Corps, Thrift Club, Latin Club, Spanish Club, and Dramatic Club. He is now completing the college preparatory course.

EDWARD REMINGTON CLARK, JR.

Choice Of Engineer Or Journalist

Edward, a blue-eyed and brown-haired senior, has the ambition to become either an engineer or a journalist. He has been active in such school organizations as the Spanish Club, on the Surveyor Staff, Associate Editor of Surveyor, and the Radio Club.

LYDIA MABEL CLARKE

Hopes To Be A Pianist

Someday we shall be hearing a great pianist, a graduate of our own school, for that is the ambition of Lydia. Lydia has been a member of the Silver Dollar History Club, Latin Club, Library Club, and Pep Club. After graduating she plans to attend Strayer's Business College.

BERNARD GIBSON CLINE, JR.

Grid Star To Enter R. U.

Bernard, known on the football field for the past three years, wishes to attend the University of Richmond after graduation. Besides his football playing, he has been a member of the Cadet Corps, Pep Club, Thrift Club, Civics Club, Colonel Deem's Sabre Club, Glee Club, Rifle Team, French Club, Surveyor Staff, Basketball, Track, and Baseball teams.

MARY ELIZABETH COFLIN

Oh! To Wear A White Smock

Mary, who has brown eyes and brown hair, plans to go in training at Providence Hospital. During her high school career she has been active in cadet work and the Latin Club.

MARION VIRGINIA CRAGG

Former Graduate To Be R. N.

Marion, a Commercial student and a member of the February graduating class, has ambitions of becoming a nurse. She plans to get a job after graduation. Marion was active in the Commercial Club.

THOMAS BERNARD COOK

Interested In Military Tactics

Bernard Cook, better known as "Cookie" to his friends, graduated from high school February, 1938. He was very active in sports and received honorable mention on the All-State Football Team during the 1937 season. He was Lieutenant Colonel in the Cadet Corp. He hopes to further himself in military tactics.

WILLIE DEVERS

To Be Business Man

Willie is another blue-eyed, brown-haired senior who plans to be a big business man some day. He has taken a general course and will go to work after graduation as a start to going to the top in the business world.

ERNESTINE NELSON DUFFEY

To Be Commercial Artist

Although blue-eyed, brown-haired Ernestine has no plans after graduation, her ambition is to be a commercial artist. Since she has been in high school, she has belonged to the Glee Club, Library Club, and Pep Club.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN EDWARDS

To Be A "Successful Business Man"

Warren plans to become a clerk and attend night school in Washington. He has gray eyes and brown hair, and an ambition to go to Benjamin Franklin University and become successful in business.

HAROLD BERNARD FAGELSON

Auctioneer The Business World

Harold expects to become a famous business administrator or perhaps a lawyer. During his high school career he has been very active in school organizations.

To list Harold's various activities would take up a page, but he was outstanding in "Where the Cross is Made" and the "Thirteenth Chair." He was also known in cadets, newspaper work, and was auctioneer and Traffic Director for the Student Council.

JOHN UNDERWOOD FIELDS

Success Comes To Those Who Wait

So says John Fields, who received his diploma in June. John's only comment, other than he will accept any job with a future, was that the first four years were the hardest; also he stated he would further his education at night school. John may be remembered by Spanish students for his participation in the Spanish Club 1934 and 1935. He took a general course.

JOSEPH CLAYTON FINEGAN

Plans To Be A Journalist

Joe, a commercial student with dark brown hair and green eyes, plans to be a journalist. We wish him much success in his field, and we expect big things from him.

JOSEPHINE MYERS GARNETT

Horses Attract Jo Jo

Josephine, who has been active in the Pep Club, Girl Reserves, Library Club, Silver Dollar History Club, and Dramatic Club, will attend college after her graduation. Josephine takes much interest in riding and expects to be an expert horsewoman some day.

ELWOOD HUNTER GRIMM

To Enter West Point

Elwood "Grizzly" has been active in his high school career in the Pep Club and on the football squad, on which he was outstanding in '35, '36, '37.

He will fulfill his greatest ambition by entering West Point after he graduates.

MARIE LOUISE HALL

Wanted: Position As Stenographer

Marie, who has brown hair and eyes, has taken a commercial course in high school and wants to be a stenographer. Much luck to another ambitious stenographer.

CHARLES HOWARD HARVEY

"Puck" To Be A Farmer

"Puck," as he is better known to fellow students, plans to attend business school.

Puck is known for his basketball playing because he has played for three years on the varsity team. His ambition is to become a manager of a large farm. Imagine Puck as a farmer!

WENDALL CLARK HODGES

Skilled Accountant In Making

Wendall, an outstanding member of the Student Council, after his graduation plans to become an accountant. This brown-eyed and black-haired senior has taken a commercial course as an aid to his future skilled job.

ROBERT WILLIAM JOHNSTON

AN ELEGY

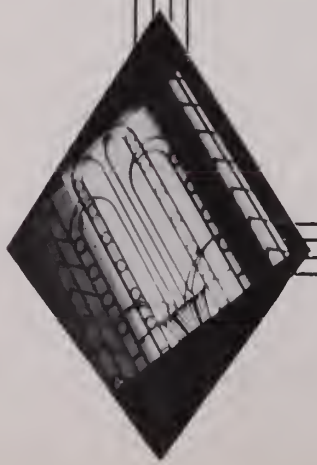
With Apologies to Thomas Gray and the English Department

Commencement tolls the knell of high school days,
The Seniors wind slowly from the room,
Mr. Lindsey follows them with tears of praise,
And leaves the place to "Shorty" and to shadowy gloom.

Now fades the glimmering school day from the sight,
But yet a new class still our memory holds,
We leave the spirit of an ever-ready fight
To those who've yet to make the goal.

Yet, at the time of the six weeks' report,
The moping students will to the teachers retort
Such things as "Why this grade or that?"
And again the teachers will all stand pat.

Beneath those rugged walls, that flagpole's shade,
Where heaved a sigh, many a struggling lad and maid
Each in its narrow cell forever laid
The memory of the seniors sleeps.



For them, no more the cheerful bells shall ring,
Nor assembly brighten the long, hard day,
Nor the home room songs they used to sing
Follow them on their weary way.

The breezy call of Mr. Moncure's voice,
The swallow twittering of Alma's calls,
The radio's shrill clarion, which was the source
Of raising students from the darkened halls.

Let not ambition mock their youthful ways,
Their homely joys, and worldly gains;
But 'til the end of time, let them say,
I wish I might return again.

The boast of teachers, the praise of friends,
And all that studies, all that work, e'er gave,
Awaits the inevitable trend,
When knowledge, satisfaction to the mind will send.

Full many a gem of dramatic ability,
Has played its role upon our stage;
Full many a flower is born to agility,
A fine piece of work to the very last page.

The applause of the crowded auditorium
Will linger in our ears,
From our many plays and performances
Throughout the future years.

Oft did the teachers drive us to their will,
Their fury made us answer the call.
And the memory will linger with us still,
But yet we love them one and all.

Assembly morn, you'll miss "Bill" on the stage,
In the halls and at crowded meetings, too;
Another will stand there to calm the rage,
Another as friendly, and just as true.

Miss Dickinson, our English VIII teacher, we leave behind,
With her love for flowers and detest for gum,
An old maid she is, but doesn't mind
Because she knows that in the past she was loved by some.

Many teachers of purest manners and ways,
Have labored to help us o'er hurdles so high,
Some have departed, but many have stayed,
To each and all, many thanks, and good-bye.

Class Historian,
Doris Padget.

junior reflections

Vice-President ..... Sammie Meeks
Treasurer ..... Ed Snyder
Sponsor ..... Miss C. Andujar

Well, here we are, all ready to step in and take our places as seniors. The dear old senior class doesn't know what intelligent and talented juniors it's getting, or does it?

While wandering around the halls today, I saw the sweethearts of the school strolling hand in hand, and they were no other than Vera Barrett and Billy Meeks. Billy seems to have lived up to the saying of "In the Spring a young man's fancy—"

And there was that North Carolina boy, bumming chewing gum again. There's no school without Jimmy Lowe running around with his ups and downs.

As I was on the verge of organizing a searching party to see if they might discover my history book somewhere in my locker, up comes our own Milton (Davy) Davenport. And say, is he growing up! Before we know it, he's going to be another Robert Taylor —or something.

At Junior class meeting the other day the president, Harold Shaw, presided. Harold is gaining the top rapidly. His ease and good nature, to say nothing of his good looks which have been found out by most of the Junior girls, is telling us that we have a find in Harold.

Will I ever forget typing class when Thelma Murphy, Eleanor King and I sat and wondered how people ever won medals for typing! Thelma is a stranger in town from way up north. A northerner in the crowd, huh? North or South, Thelma has become a friend to all and even increased the talent in our band by lending her own musical ability to it.

And could we ever forget our best all around girl? Eleanor can shine in a game or in a dance, and we all know it. She can always be found cheering up someone, or laughing at our jokes—funny or not. She's our own Sun Shine Girl.

And there's the star of the team—Mrs. Dove's son, Eddie, holding up the wall. With him is a little southern girl whom her mother calls Brownie Varnell. Now I ask you, can you blame Dovey for being late?

I stopped around back of school to watch our track team and as usual there was Charles "Dinky" Scott coming in first. Dinky wants to major in sports and we really believe he's going to do it. He has made a name for himself in football, basketball and track. One of these days he'll come back with so many medals we won't know him.

Running down the steps I nearly fell over Alan Brown who was having a hard time making his feet behave. Since Alan has become the Fred Astaire of G. W., we can hardly expect him to resist going into his dance or going into something.

Tearing around the corner in a Ford was Mary Lee Carter. Mary Lee can always be seen tearing around some corner in some Ford, at sometime with somebody — or something.

My thoughts wander to our grand dance, and I can clearly see Jimmy's Orchestra making the dance a success. You know Jimmy really has loads of talent in his orchestra. His new vocalist, Judy Bradley, has made us all sit up and take notice. And there's Ludy Minnigh crooning softly and Jimmy causing heart throbs with his voice; and of course there's no orchestra without Lindwood "Dootsie" Reed singing as he beats his way to fame on his drums. Altogether, Jimmy has one grand orchestra and we shall never forget how proud we are of it.

At lunch time as I sat wondering why we have Geometry and also if my hot dog was quite dead or if I was slowly murdering it, I glanced around the room, and who should I see but the sheik of the school in Jimmy Taylor's clothes. Jimmy's going to be in All State if he keeps going at this rate.

Seeing the results of the rifle meet posted on the bulletin board, I glanced at the top and saw Donald O'Neil's name standing there. Donald surely is going places with that gun of his. Before long he'll probably be going to Africa and coming back as Donald O'Buck or something like that.

Glee Club meeting before the Norwich Club Concert turned out to be a riot when plans for the Club Tea Dance were being discussed. As usual, the boys showed their ignorance and wondered how they were expected to dance with cups of tea in their hands and "why couldn't we have a beer dance, anyway?" Well, as long as they are boys I suppose there is an excuse.

I peeped in the gym after school and wondered why we weren't State Champions with such a fine team. Ed Snyder was really shooting them. Ed's another northerner in our midst. The north must be moving south, but we don't mind as long as they can play basketball like Ed.

And of course, I saw Archie Thommasson because Archie is another one who is going places. He plays basketball and baseball just as well as anyone and that's some playing.

Well, as I yawn and climb into bed, I wonder if the next Junior Class will be as proud of their Juniors as we are of ours.

among the sophomores

Secretary ..... Ryland Dodge
Sponsor ..... Miss D. Calahan

As a good many Sophomores are, Betty Kiger is very enthusiastic over the jazz hit, "The Big Apple." Many attempts to "Susie Q" and "truck" have been seen between classes and during lunch period. Sophomore parties consider the "Big Apple" one of the main amusements.

About basketball. Jack Davis and Richard Owens are two great stars. They participate in local division games and they rate champs of one division.

Music (attempted) is enjoyed by a certain Sophomore class when the teacher is not in. Warren (harmonica) Payne and Fred (Pazzoca) Marsh are the musicians. They have a variety of arrangements which secures the attention of the class.

Lazy people play a part in almost every field of life as they must in the Sophomore Class. David Keefer probably has a good deal to do with the lazy part of the Sophomore Class although quite a few others aid him.

One of the most popular girls in the Sophomore Class is Kile Barnhill, at least Jack Kirkman, Robert Boltwood, and Edward Irby seem to think so.

David Gardner is trying hard to get a date. Robert Sellers seems to be making a hit with Betty Hedges; he makes fudge for her on dates; she has a yen for sweet things, too.

Besides the hard work and concentration required, algebra also has a romantic side. At least it appears that way when Walter Angel and Dorthy Brian get their heads together supposedly over algebra answers.

While waiting for the bell which will signify the beginning of History class, Willie Triplet amuses himself running around with girls' pocketbooks while Ralph Fleming imitates airplanes over the ventilator with a rubber band.

Douglas Welch, that Sophomore of many months, was probably the most frozen in the three-day freeze which hung over G. W. that week in March. He came into home room looking as if he had escaped from a sanatorium.

The halls of G. W. serve a suitable place for exchanging ideas and having short chats before and between classes. Jean Eastman and Richard Owens, Douglas Welch and Jane Huff, Warren Hardester and Ruth Eaten, and many others take advantage of this fact.

In closing I want to say that I have tried my best to gather and express different thoughts with the snap shots and brief events which we Sophomores will surely remember.

freshman keyhole

Hi! Ho! another year for the past Freshmen and hopeful Sophomores. Looking into the future we see dances, pretty girls, and much fun. At the Freshman party talent was shown and amusement provided for over 175 students. At the party Lewellyn Kendrick, master of ceremonies, introduced the various members of the class taking part in the program. The program was a great success, and Miss Morecock, the sponsor, was happy to hear the tune of some forty odd dollars pouring into the Freshman treasury.

Here we go with a keyhole view of the 1938 G. W. Freshmen now proudly boasting the sophistication of Sophomores.

Oops! We caught you this time—Shirley Strickler ignoring the bell to chat with "Tweetise" Chisolm.

There goes Frank King and Russell Miller to a dancing school. Are they preparing for the Sophomore girls?

Say! What's the attraction down the hall? Yep, you guessed it. That roller coaster wave in the blond hair of Chilton "Chilly" Raiford has all the girls' eyes traveling in circles. Not only this, but his personality has made him very popular with all the boys and girls.

Jane Huff and Virginia Taylor seldom walk home, but when they do, they always have an escort.

Nancy Aitcheson and "Corky" Gorham, cheer leaders, hope when Seniors, to cheer the Presidents to victory and fame.

Warning! Watch your step in the halls or you may trip over a small stump of personality. He is none other than Benjamin Alvin Williamsowsky. Wow! what a name for a boy not bigger than four feet tall, but Ben is not handicapped. In fact, he rates with the toppers in popularity.

Peeping into 301 we see Marion Prince as usual. What for this time, Marion?

A curly brown-headed, hazel-eyed boy, whom we all call Jack Crump, is no exception by any means to the G. W. Hit Parade. In fact his one hundred and some odd pounds of muscle have made him a general hit at our basketball and football games. Besides being an excellent football player, Jack can also handle a basketball very effectively.

If you ever wonder how the atmosphere is above you, ask Robert Wood. Robert can easily top 5 feet 10 inches and, man, that's height. Robert is the President of our Freshman class if you didn't know it and has done some fine work in conducting its meetings.

Aw, now! Someone has plugged our keyhole!

Hands at work, hands at play —strong, capable hands on horn-pan balance and scales— hands in applause, spontaneous or lackadaisical—hands on the well-worn jacket of a book— eager hands, reaching for a favorite dessert on the cafeteria counter. Sunlight aslant on skilled fingers on the keys of a piano — paint-stained fingers tinting the walls of a patio in Southern California. A strong hand gripping a pen, racing over white paper, leaving a sable tracery of words behind. A finger poised over the shutter of a camera. A careful hand on the adjustor of a microscope, capable, artistic, scientific.

Student Council, Directed by William Vogler, Completes Successful Year

The Student Council of George Washington High School has completed another good year's work under William Vogler who took office in May, 1937. As president he presided at the weekly assembly and acted as ex-officio member of the standing committee of the council.

The council, composed of twenty-two members who represent the various clubs and organizations of the school, attempts to increase student responsibility in school activities. Any outstanding activity or function of the students after school hours has to be authorized by the council. It handles traffic, sanitation, discipline, and honor problems with the advice of the faculty sponsors, Miss Park and Mr. Hillman, and the principal.

The Honor and Discipline committee, composed of Millicent de Butts, George Gompf, Boyd Myers, and William Vogler, is the most responsible committee of the council. Any person disregarding the standards of honor and discipline is brought before this committee. After careful consideration of the case, the committee makes a recommendation as to the punishment. The student in question is given opportunity to defend himself and if, in the opinion of the committee, he justifies his actions, the case is dismissed.

John Spittle, as chairman of the Traffic Committee with Billy Carne, assistant, has efficiently handled the manifold traffic problems that an enrollment of 1,400 students presents. Under the direction of the traffic committee a thousand students can be seated in the auditorium in approximately three minutes. In the four minutes allotted to the changing of classes the student body moves two floors with little congestion. Cooperating with the City Police Department the committee has attempted to put a stop to students' hitch-hiking from school.

student council

Lost and found articles are reported to the Lost and Found Committee of the council, headed this year by Hazel Ridelle. For some time these articles are kept and can be claimed by the owners. If, after a reasonable length of time they are not claimed, an auction is conducted by the committee. Receipts from the auction go into a floating fund for the general use of the Student Council.

The Cafeteria committee, Richard Burrell, chairman, takes charge of the cafeteria during the four lunch periods. It encourages the student body to conduct itself in an orderly way in order that the cafeteria may accommodate a maximum number of students satisfactorily. The Sanitation committee, composed of Ellen Rammel and Warren Fletcher, works with the Cafeteria committee in keeping the tables and halls free from trash.

All announcements or advertisements put on the bulletin boards must first be okayed by Sarah Yates who has been in charge of that phase of council activity. By means of this censorship all unnecessary notices are eliminated and the bulletin boards catch the casual eyes of the passers-by.

Due to these activities of the Student Council, our school life has been improved. The school should recognize this excellent work and cooperation and should congratulate the members of this organization.

The mechanism of the Student Council in action—monitoring the cafeteria, supervising school's sanitation, and directing the assembly traffic.

latin club

Ave Atque Vale!

Sodalitas Latine—society in Latin—has had an exceptionally good time this year. Reorganized under the supervision of Mrs. Hutto, its sponsor, it now has four sections.

The Arts and Models section has been occupied in transforming clay into miniature models of the Roman household utensils. One member of this section, Anna Fagelson, has turned in several pieces of soap sculpture—one, a model of Hercules holding up the world for Atlas.

The Clothing section dressed dolls in the fashions worn by Romans during the height of the Roman Empire. Some of the group tried their hand at armor.

The Construction section built a model Roman home with the atrium and peristyle as seen in every Roman house and imitation mosaics on the walls.

The Miscellaneous section handled the business of the club and planned field trips.

Altogether, the "fratres et sorores" have filled their calendar with all sorts of interesting activities.

Le Cercle Francais Presented

Original Play

President	Charles Biondi
Vice-President	Jack Aitcheson
Secretary	Howard Hoddick
Treasurer	Winifred Gregory
Sponsor	Miss Park

The members of the French Club spent quite a time trying to decide on an insignia for the Club. After some deliberation they chose the Fleur-de-Lis, the national symbol of France.

Next they went to work to secure correspondents abroad. They have them in Belgium, France, and French Colonies. All correspondence is carried on in French.

The latter part of April Miss Park presented an original French play written by Edith Cuson. It was the story of a doting father and his only child, a pampered girl, Adoree. The girl fell in love with a school teacher, Pierre. Papa seriously objected because Pierre was so poor, and he gave Pierre the "Never darken my door" speech. Pierre, after being put out, soon returned with the information that he had won an academy award. Immediately, Papa accepted him as a son-in-law and all ended blissfully. The play was presented entirely in French. The master of ceremonies translated it.

SPANISH CLUB WINS FIRST PRIZE WITH "SCANDAL"

Yes, for once a scandal comes in for first place. "The Scandal" was a skit presented by the Spanish Club at Stunt Night. It was a very clever skit and took the prize of five dollars. Thus the club started off on a round of activities equaled by few other clubs in school.

Just before Thanksgiving the club gave a Bingo Party and a turkey was won by a high school student, Dick English. Other luscious looking cakes and pies were given.

Every spring the Spanish Club has a picnic. The students always look forward to the picnic, because it is a pleasant surprise as to where they will go and what they will do.

The Spanish Club meetings have unusually well-balanced programs. Spanish songs are sung, Spanish customs and manners are discussed, with the intent of stimulating interest in Spain and the study of Spanish.

Every year the Spanish Club sends students to participate in the state contest held for high school students' ability in speaking Spanish.

silver dollar history club

Silver Dollar History Club Enriches Classes

George Washington really started something when he threw that "Silver Dollar" across the Rappahannock. This "deed of daring" was the inspiration for the name of a club composed of students of History Seven, History Eight, or Political Civics. It was organized as an entertaining yet educational parallel to those classes.

The club programs have been devoted to the life, music, literature, entertainment, and occupation of the American people, beginning with the Indians and continuing to the present day.

Not only has the Silver Dollar History Club been active in this way, but it has been active in other activities around school. They participated in Stunt Night, securing honorable mention for their stunt.

The Theodore Ficklin Literary Society Dates from 1911

The Theodore H. Ficklin Literary Society has been in existence almost from the time of the organization of the old Alexandria High School in 1911. In its galaxy of membership have been many of the brightest stars in the High School's firmament.

It has always stood for culture and the best things in school life. Acquaintance with the best in literature has been its aim, while occasional debates, skits, and literary studies of an amusing nature have lightened the deeper tones of the programs.

Always eagerly anticipated and enthusiastically participated in have been the spring and fall picnics with Miss Kroes Ficklin at "Fidelia," her little place on the Potomac.

This is Miss Ficklin's last year as sponsor, as she retires from the teaching profession at the close of this session. She has been the club's mentor and guide for many a year.

biology club

Flowers, Flowers!

The Biology Club is out to beautify the school. They have started a garden in the rear of the school. They have planted hardy perennials that won't have to be looked after during the summer.

But this is not the full extent of the Club's activities. Its work runs parallel to the Biology Classes offered in school. Sometimes the students go more deeply into a subject than they have time for in classes. All the materials in the Biology department are at the Club's disposal, thus it is enabled to do advanced work.

commercial club

THE COMMERCIAL CLUB DOES MUCH OF SCHOOL CLERICAL WORK

The Commercial Club is one of the newest of G. W. H. S. It is composed of about forty members of the Commercial Department and is sponsored by Miss Ruby Crumley. The club meets twice a month in Room 214, with the following officers presiding:

President ..... Doris Padgett
Vice-President ..... Ellen Hunter
Secretary-Treasurer ..... Betsy Litaker

The purpose of this club is to acquaint the commercial students with the ways and means of the business world. This purpose is carried out by the program committee at each meeting.

The program committee introduces various speakers; such as Mr. Elliott of Strayer's College and the champion typist, Mr. Soucek. Short skits are given to show the correct and incorrect way to apply for a job. Various students give short talks on the ways and means of the business world, what a good secretary must know and do, and the advantages of taking a business course.

The club has certain duties, although they are classified as duties of the Commercial Department. The students do all the typing for the journalism classes, scripts for plays, and various reports of different departments.

The most important activity of the club is the editing of the Commercial Club Paper every month. The paper contains news of interest to the business department and records of those who have passed business accomplishment tests. The staff includes:

Editor ..... Betsy Litaker
Assistant Editor ..... Doris Padgett
Manager ..... Sara Jean Moss

Home Economics Club Wishes to Better Social Conditions

The Home Economics Club was organized at the beginning of the semester under the sponsorship of Mrs. Parker, the sewing teacher.

The objectives for the year as stated by the secretary, Marsland Penn, are as follows:

1. The club will have three sub groups. Namely, the knitting, crocheting, and sewing groups.
2. A chairman appointed from each group will work with Mrs. Parker.
3. Once every two months all the groups will gather for a program with the entertainment committee in charge.
4. The knitting and crocheting groups will meet on Tuesday and the sewing group on Wednesday.

The Club's main desire is to promote better social conditions.

The Sewing Club presented a very original and novel stunt for Stunt Night. It was entitled the Dance of the Dolls. They were lucky in taking second place—a prize of $2.50.

The Bookhounds, the Library Club of the George Washington High School, is this year four years old! The club was organized in 1934, in the former Alexandria High School. The aim and purpose of the organization is: "To cooperate actively and assist in the library . . . to familiarize all students with the library and its services, and to add to the volume and content of the library through beneficiary activities." Student assistants are in the library at regular hours to learn routine work. The library and club activities are publicized by student reporter, and by articles on the school page of the local paper.

Club Finishes First Semester

With the growing current enthusiasm in the art of photography, a need was felt for a Photography club in the school activities. This club, now finishing its first semester of organization, has purchased equipment and set up a dark room for picture developing and had guest speakers on various subjects.

Working with the foundation knowledge acquired this term, the club hopes to go into more technical photography, and to serve the school in collaboration with the "The Compass" and the school paper.

Pep Club Punctuates Year With Many Brilliant Activities

With "Arch" McDonald, sports commentator of WJSV, as toastmaster and Walter Johnson of baseball pitching fame as guest speaker at the annual football banquet held in December, the Pep Club climaxed a fall of brilliant activity. Attending the banquet were the football squad, school board, council, faculty and special friends of the team which totaled over three hundred people. Mr. Ma kie and his cohorts with a memorable turkey dinner started the ball rolling. Near the close of the banquet Mr. Page Waller, chairman of the school board, presented the squad members with monogrammed sweaters.

As the final feature Jimmy Michelbach's orchestra broke into the familiar strains of "Sweet Varsity Sue." At the west end of the cafeteria gathered the pick of G. W.'s pulchritude and popularity, six girls, each representing an outstanding Virginia Class A football team. These six girls had been selected by a school ballot, the one with the largest vote to be Miss G. W. High. Evelyn Redman, Eleanor King, Norma White, Judith Bradley and Elizabeth Jones, each representing an opponent of our team last season stepped forward as the Boys Glee Club sang. As the Glee Club came to the final score of the melody Janice Matheny appeared as "Miss G. W. High" carrying yellow chrysanthemums and smiling at the applauding audience. The banquet was followed by a dance in the gym.

Those attending stunt night on November 5, another Pep Club program, recall it with pride as the best organized and most entertaining one on record. The packed auditorium was royally entertained for three hours. The Spanish Club skit won first prize and the Economics Club second.

And still another occasion under the sponsorship of Miss Pratt's crowd was a sports dance following the Newport News football game. With the guests coming in from the game in sweaters and sport clothes, the informality furnished a genial atmosphere. The Newport News boys reported back home they had never before been accorded such hospitality. Then, there was a snake dance and rally the night before Thanksgiving.

G. W. High will not soon forget the epidemic of blue and gold skull caps with which the Pep Club inoculated the student body in the fall. With hundreds of bobbing caps and waving banners and bright chrysanthemums the cheering section was the nucleus of more real pep and school spirit than was ever known. This might well be considered the club's most noteworthy accomplishment.

Cheer Leaders Play Big Part in G. W. Pep

A sharp, crisp day! Crowds cheering! Miss Hundley huddled up on the end of a bench . . . Henry Clark, head of the cheerleaders, running to Miss Hundley for directions . . . linemen running up and down the sidelines . . . but above all the cheerleaders in their crisp white uniforms and white sweaters with their blue and gold G. W.'s!

All during the football season the cheerleaders could be seen like this. But they didn't stop here. They could be seen again all during basketball season leading cheers between halves.

Tryouts were held at the beginning of the year for cheerleaders. So many turned out that they decided to have Senior, Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman groups. Six were chosen for the Senior group—Eleanor King, Janice Matheny, Harriet Herndon, Gail Brown, Henry Clark, and Milton Davenport.

Miss Hundley trained the Senior cheerleaders. They composed new yells and perfected old ones. Each Senior cheerleader in turn was put in charge of a group of the lower classmen. The group as a whole worked faithfully and never failed to show up for a game.

Cheer and more cheer! The whole squad!

With that final word from Miss Hundley.

"Hit High!" Sophomore cheer leaders.

"Come seven—come eleven!" Freshmen cheer leaders.

Dramatic Club Calendar Marked by Many Innovations

Activity with a red letter "A" might well describe the Dramatic Club during this session. Its accomplishments fall into three fields; namely, acting, student directing, and scenery designing. Its calendar shows four one-act play productions, "Where the Cross Is Made," "Wisdom Teeth," "Diogenes Looks for a Secretary" and "The Boor," and two three-act plays, "Grin and Bear It" and "The Ghost Train."

Miss Jones and Miss Hundley have been in charge of production, each one directing one of the three-act plays. Under their leadership Jarvis Butler directed Anton Chekhov's "The Boor" which was chosen as the school's one-act play to enter the State Contest at Charlottesville. Nancy Payne put on the one-act comedy, 'Wisdom Teeth."

Under Mrs. Ellen King the stage crew designed and executed the building of sets, took charge of all properties, and managed sound effects. The students who should be congratulated on this phase of theater work were: Joseph Williamowsky, William Dunckel, Robert Gillette, and Peter McConnell.

Shylock Biondi off his guard.—A grin from "Grin and Bear It."—Scenes from "The Ghost Train."

"Grin and Bear It"

Resume: A comedy dealing with unsophisticated youth as it flutters uncertainly on the wings of sixteen. George and Terry McIntyre as played by Charles Biondi and Nancy Payne are the problem children who together with the other members of the cast provide moments of tenseness as they work out their adolescent problems. Betty Worsham again turns in a delightful performance as Prudence, the vamp, who tells George he is too young.

Feature: Outstanding for two things—the consistent fine acting of Charles Biondi and the lovely sets made by Mrs. Ellen King.

Cast:

George McIntyre.....Charles Biondi
Terry McIntyre.....Nancy Payne
Professor McIntyre.....John Walker
Mrs. McIntyre.....Mary Fox Allgood
Prudence Darling.....Betty Worsham

Others in the cast were Imogene Sheppherd, Judith Bradley, James Baker, Dick English, Brownie Varnell, Burder Athey, Henry Clark, Jarvis Butler, Esther Leachman, and Jack Craddock.

"The Ghost Train"

Resume: The tale of this famous mystery-comedy is woven about an old legend of a phantom locomotive that comes sweeping through the night quiet of the peaceful village of Rockland, Maine, leaving death in its wake. Suspense predominates in this weird tale accompanied by plenty of fun supplied chiefly by Charles Biondi in the seemingly ridiculous role of an Englishman who proved to be a Scotland Yard detective. Cornelia Allfriend turned in another excellent comedy portrayal as Miss Bourne, the spinster. Outstanding among the rest of the very good characterizations were William Dunckel as the old station master and Ellen Hunter as a very dramatic member of a dope smugglers' ring.

Feature: The almost perfect coordination of actors, sound effect men, electricians, indeed everyone who was connected with the play.

Cast:

Teddie Beaken.....Charles Biondi
Saul Hodgkin.....William Dunckel
Miss Bourne.....Cornelia Allfriend
Peggy Murdock.....Edith Cuson
Charles Murdock.....Sam Meeks
Elsie Winthrop.....Margo Sellers

Contestants' Club Composed of Six Departments

The Contestants' Club is one of the older of the school's activities. The spirit of competition is one of man's oldest characteristics, and it is well represented in G. W.!

There are six sections in the Club. Each one is a beehive of activity when contest time approaches, for there are preliminary and eliminary contests to be passed before the winning contestant or article may be sent to Fredericksburg or Charlottesville.

The Spelling Club met every single Tuesday (and sometimes Fridays!) and spun out words and words and words,—long ones, short ones, catchy ones, and Edith Cuson won and was sent to Charlottesville.

The Public Speaking Club declaimed meritoriously, and John Spittle and Elizabeth Strother were sent to Charlottesville.

The Debating Club argued furiously, "with commendable attention" to expression and stance. Lynnhurst Johnson, De Forest Lewis, and William Birrell — affirmative — and George Giammattorio, Haven Stewart, and Vernard Bond—negative.

The Reading Club went about with mysterious books, and read in low undertones about everything. Readers Virginia Gould and James Rixey were selected as the year's prize readers.

Short stories and poems flooded Miss Kiracofe's desk from all points till she could be seen at lunch time vaguely waving a manuscript in one hand and a sandwich in the other. Virginia Gould won the short story contest with a Chinese story entitled "Goong-Shi-Fat-Se," and Elizabeth Jones won the poetry contest with "May."

G. W. Glee Clubs Prove Popular

The Girls' Glee Club meetings held twice a week, on Tuesday and Thursday during the last half of the fourth period, have been enthusiastically attended. Many classical and popular songs have been learned for three-part singing.

The Norwich Glee Club of Vermont honored the G. W. High Glee Clubs by appearing here at G. W. while on their annual tour. The Norwich University Glee Club presented a concert, and later in the afternoon a Tea Dance was given by the University Orchestra. The money raised was used to help pay for the concert grand piano.

The Glee Clubs were invited to participate in a radio program sponsored by the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce. The boys sang the ever popular favorite, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," and the girls sang, "On Wings of Song." Broadcasting was a novel experience.

Last Christmas the Glee Clubs went caroling. They sang at the Anne Lee Memorial Home; at Mr. William's, Superintendent of School; at Mr. Waller's, Chairman of the School Board. This was the first year the Glee Clubs had done this.

Mention should go to Anita Herndon, the able and willing accompanist of both Glee Clubs.

boys' glee club

Boys' Glee Club Makes Many Appearances

The Boys' Glee Club met every Tuesday and Wednesday during Homeroom period. There were about forty-six members in all. They sang for assemblies and other special occasions. They were always well accepted and sometimes they were even liked more than the Girls' Glee Club and that is saying something!

One of the first places the boys sang this year, that is outside of school, was Christ Church, for a supper given there. It is thought that a number of people came just to hear the boys. Well, after this they entertained at one place after another; there was no end to it!

The Boys' Glee Club sponsored the "Sweetheart Contest." They charged a penny a vote and it didn't appear to be too high a price from the number of votes cast. They were invited to sing at the Football Banquet. They surprised everyone by singing a song several members of the Girls' Glee Club had written to the tune of "Sweet Varsity Sue."

The boys are one step ahead of the girls—they have a quartet and a very good quartet it is! The members are Robert Field, Jimmy Michelbach, Llewelyn Minnigh, and Waller Dudley. These boys sang at the February graduating exercises. They sang first a classical number in keeping with the formality of the program, and then they sang the favorite of this past year, "Bei Mir Bist du Schoen."

Junior Girls' Glee Club

Newly Organized

The Junior Girls' Glee Club is a newly organized one. The members of the Freshman and Sophomore classes had been complaining because they were not allowed to join the Senior Girls' Glee Club. Mrs. Malone decided she would have to do something about it, and as a result the Junior Girls' Glee Club was organized.

These girls are prepared for the Senior Glee Club. They do two and three part singing. They are taught the fundamentals of singing, principally to read notes, give proper expression, and to breathe correctly.

Songs they have learned this past semester include: Brahm's "Lullaby," "By the Bend of the River," and "Country Gardens."

May

Peach-trees lift rosy-petaled, sweet bouquets
Toward a blue and stainless dome of sky.
A faint breeze stirs among the blossom sprays.

Lilacs, cool, white and purple, tower high
O'er shy primroses sheltered in the grass.
A whisper of the fragrance shimmers by

And melts away, as dainty perfumes pass
Into the clear-as-crystal morning air.
A dreaming couple, lad and gentle lass,

Turn happy faces, knowing all is fair—
All life, all joy, all love surpassing gay.
The little winds bear laughter on the air.

Oh, what a lovely month is blooming May!

In Serried Ranks — Saber Drill — In Proud Array

For practical instructions in drills and ceremonies, the Cadet Corps is organized into a battalion of boy cadets and a battalion of girl cadettes.

The organization is under the immediate command of the Professor of Military Science and Tactics, or P. M. S. & T., who is responsible to the Superintendent and Principal for the training and discipline of the Corps.

The Cadet officers and non-commissioned officers, who are next in line of command, are selected for their scholastic standing, soldierly bearing, good conduct, and efficient performance of duty.

Our Director — Forward March — Shadow and Substance

The advantages of military training and discipline have been known for centuries. The Spartans of ancient Greece were noted for their rigid rules of army and civil life—much more strict and better-obeyed than those of modern dictatorships, which try now to impose these rules on an unwilling populace. For that is one of the main points of discipline—it must be not only obedience, but willing obedience. It is only human for people to try to get by without doing things, though they are afraid to disobey. It works the other way, too; they will make a much better job of it when they are wholeheartedly interested and desirous of cooperating.

The Cadet Corps of G. W., besides the main Corps, is divided into branches, including the Band, the Bugle Corps, the Rifle Team, the Sabre Club, and the Cadet Council.

The Band, organized by Captain MacKenzie and led by Bandmaster James Michelbach, has not only become one of the most attractive features of school life, but has enlivened the more sober mass of the Corps with its colorful presence.

The Bugle Corps takes care of the ceremony of raising and lowering the flags every day, and adds greatly to the ceremony of the occasion in doing so.

The Rifle Team is one of the most interesting phases ot cadet life. Members are instructed in the practical methods of shooting and often become developed to an unusual degree of accuracy in the course of instruction. Competitive matches are held with other teams, and letters are awarded at the end of the year.

The Sabre Club is composed of the boy officers who conduct both serious and light business at their meetings.

To the Cadet Council, made up of cadet officers appointed by the P. M. S. & T., is entrusted the upholding of the honor and spirit of the Corps and the customs and traditions of the school. Disciplinary matters are frequently referred to the Council for investigation and recommendation.

A well-trained, healthy, and clean body is simply an index to the mind and character of the man (or the woman). Under the military system of training at G. W., much care, thought, and time are spent upon mental as upon physical development, to the end that the cadets of the school may possess a quick command of every faculty, an orderly and logical method of thought, a manly recognition of proper authority, and the willingness to accept responsibility.

As the rather worn phrase goes, "virtue is its own reward," for those who respond best and most intelligently to the training received become officers, with the privilege of training and commanding others.

Cadet drill is intensely interesting to those who take it with the proper attitude and throw themselves wholeheartedly into the process of training. It becomes a real hardship for them to tear themselves away.

Participation in parades and other such activities is another source of interest to the cadet, for who can deny the thrill of being a part of a parade? Under the eyes of thousands, with the stirring music of bands and the rhythm of marching feet, who can help having a springy step and a light heart in tune with it all?

Roll: Vivian Blake, Lucille Toombs, Margaret Robinson, Marguerite Bass, Elizabeth Morris, Barbara Mount, Morse Sheppard, Thelma Taggart, Annette Rumshin, Betty King, Susie Mercer, Hazel Robey, Kyle Barnhill, Doretta Burke, Hazel Kirchner, Elsie Brown, Minnie English, Estelle Robey, Vivian Millan, Jean Eastman, Virginia Hall, Muriel McCracken, Thelma Taggart, Catherine Mills, Violet Lannon, Catherine Dawson, Lois English, Jerry Reed, Jeanette Florence, Doris Elliot, Marguerite Fisher, Virginia Owens, Margie King.

Parades and clubs and special activities, fine as they are, are not the chief objectives of the Cadet Corps—far from it. The most important feature is the ordinary daily drill.

There the cadets meet and become knit into one. From there comes the loyalty of the corps to its standard of unity. There humans, being molded into individual personalities, meet and are broadened by their meeting. Their characters are strengthened, they become self-confident, they acquire poise and health—straighter shoulders, a well-defined gait, a clearer eye. There these humans come to know a hundred times better the rules of life, and they get a hundred times better chance for a level outlook on those rules. For they are well and correctly taught that, in order to give orders, one must first learn how to take them; that, to make a smooth-running machine, all the parts must coordinate willingly and without hestitation or friction; that the way to get along in life with the most ease and happiness is to find the best method of fitting one's self into the world with one's fellow-men, and to hold to that method, forever.

Young hearts eager, young bodies pressing forward — always forward—to carry the ball over the line—strong brown hands clenching it, tussling, hustling. Gleam of light as it strikes a sphere of brown leather precariously poised on the basket's edge. Flashing eyes filled with interest, pulsing throats roaring a keen challenge to the opposing team. Fair play. The sharp crack of a bat on the begrimed hide of a ball that leaps spinning into space.

Dove Around End

Heflin Booting One Against N. T. S.

On the first of September forty odd candidates, among whom were the lettermen from last year's team, numbering an even dozen in all, and fourteen members of an exceptionally good "Javee" eleven, reported to Coaches Given and Williams, eager to begin training for the most difficult schedule which any football team bearing the Blue and Gold of G. W. has ever undertaken.

These boys engaged in two- to three-hour work-outs twice a day until the opening of school on the ninth of September. In this way the boys were in "A"-one condition when the whistle blew for their opening game with the John Marshall Justices in Richmond on the twenty-fifth of September.

During these early drills it was quite evident that we would have a team which could hold its head high in any company. The new members were filling the holes left in the line-up by graduation until it was evident that we had moulded together a winning combination.

The "Presidents" opened the season by earning a 6-6 tie with the highly touted John Marshall eleven of Richmond. This game was one of the best exhibitions of football displayed by the George Washington aggregation all year and really boosted their stock as dangerous contenders for the state title held by Hampton High School. Alexandria first saw the Presidents in the newly constructed athletic field, under arc lights, and before an estimated crowd of 6,500 defeated a strong Lane High Team from Charlottesville, 13-0.

The first defeat of the season was suffered at the hands of the powerful "Crimson Wave" from Petersburgh High School by a score of 32-0. Incidentally, the Petersburgh contingent later won the Class A title without the loss of a single game. The team scored its most decisive margin of victory for this and any other year in the history of the school at the expense of the National Training School—72-0. The Blue and Gold continued their winning ways with a 59-0 defeat over Roosevelt High School of Washington.

The Presidents got back in the state race with a 7-0 victory over the shipbuilders of Newport News High School. The defending champions of the state title, the Hampton High "Crabbers," were the next victims of the Presidents by the close score of 6-0. Of the three games remaining on the schedule, all were disheartening losses—first at the hands of a decided underdog, the "Blue Devils" of Hopewell High, by a score of 20-0. The Yellow Jackets of Fredericksburg High stung the Presidents to the tune of 14-0, and last, our old rivals, the "Little Generals" of Washington & Lee High, took the Given-coached organization into camp by a score of 19-6.

In all fairness to the team, it should be said that this team had one of the hardest schedules of any Alexandria school which has ever taken to the field. And in the games that really counted—games against state opponents—our boys usually came out on top. They won undisputed possession of third place among the fourteen Class A teams competing for the Championship of the State.

"Jayvees"

The George Washington Junior Varsity, or "Vice President," under the capable tutelage of "Jeff" Williams, played just three games—beating the Washington & Lee Javees 18-0 and losing to the Episcopal Javees twice by the respective scores of 2-0 and 12-7. Most of "Jeff's" material was raw and unlike the experienced and undefeated team of the preceding year. However, some of the boys showed real prospect and gave promise of developing into an unbeatable team of '38.

The Cake Team

A new precedent was established at G. W.—the forming of a "Cake" or 115-pound team under the direction of Mr. George Tyler, former Emory and Henry College athletic standout. The locals turned in the best record of any team to represent G. W. on the football field—winning 3, losing 1 and tying 1 as a record in games. Taylor, Crump, Singelton and Daniels were impressive for the locals during the campaign.

115-POUND TEAM

As the familiar strains of "On G. W." float across the athletic field, cheers echo and re-echo—eyes follow the soaring arc of the football catapulted into the crisp air—a typical scene at any G. W. game! Boys and girls will long remember even after they've left this Alma Mater the brilliant line work of Crocker at center, Grimm for his play-wrecking ability, Bontz as the immovable object, Taylor's devastating speed, Reed's unstopable power and that gambling play-wrecker, Eddie Nowland.

Top Row: Assistant Mgr. Fagelson, Clift, Nowland, Flick, Burrell, Mgr. Norton.

For the second time in as many years G. W.'s Varsity basketball team dropped below the 500 per cent mark, winning only 9 and losing 13 games. This came as a mild surprise to the followers of the Blue and Gold, as 6 lettermen returned, and they were bolstered by 5 promising candidates to fill in the vacancies of graduation.

Probably the most encouraging asset of the campaign was the playing of Eddie Nowland, All State forward, whose season's average of 12.3 per game is believed to be among the best, if not the best, in scholastic circles. Credit is also due the fine defensive work of Captain Stan Heflin and Dick Burrell.

G. W.'s Varsity sextet opened its basketball season with a dazzling array of talent against Nokesville's feminine athletes. The score at the end of thirty-two minutes of real playing was 25-7, in favor of the locals.

Other games played were with the alumnae six at this school, ending 19-10—a Blue and Gold victory; Lee Jackson was next on the docket, and they were upset to the tune of 25-7. But later, at Fredericksburg, the locals were trimmed to the tune of 10-5. Again with an upset our representatives were foiled at Bethesda, 14-25. But these losses were few and far between, as in the case of Sherwood vs. G. W., with the former copping the game by the impressive score of 20-2. Some other flashy displays of talent were unearthed against the teams of Lee Jackson, with the latter on the tail end of a 22-8 score, and in the game with St. Agnes, who also went home empty handed, leaving 22-10 decision behind them. As the opposing sextet were far from setups, the merits of our aggregation may well be realized. And so our girls closed a reasonably successful season: Nine games were won and seven lost. Two hundred forty-one points were made by the girls of G. W. and two hundred forty-nine by the opposition.

The Junior Varsity, playing two games, were 50 per cent winners, as they beat St. Agnes, here, 24-4, and losing to Lee Jackson's Junior Varsity, 8-24.

As the material for the annual goes to press before any of our scheduled meets are held, we can only predict the outcome of the coming track season. With five lettermen returning from last year's fine team, including Dick Burrell, our potential State high and low hurdle champion and Captain of this year's team, plus the services of Eddie Williams, Harvy Bourn, and Irving Lawson. It's no wonder the Williams-coached aggregation is giving the opposition a great deal to think about.

Coach "Jeff" Williams has carded nine meets, four dual, one quadranguler, one triangular, two district affairs, and the big State Meet at Charlottesville.

After several warm-ups or preliminary games, in which the locals showed real promise on the diamond, they opened their scheduled season with a lop-sided victory over Georgetown Prep of Washington, 10-1. Stuart "Duck" Porter pitched no-hit ball, and the Prepsters' only run was scored on an error, depriving "Duck" of the goal that all pitchers wish to attain—a no-hit, no-run game.

This being the first game of the season and under the capable direction of Coach Tyler, the members of the team and the students are looking forward to a great campaign.

With three lettermen returning from the standout nine of '36, and such excellent performers as Paul "Snuffy" Lipps, Stan Heflin, Charles "Dinky" Scott, and Wilbur "Bo" Robinson, our prospects are unusually bright.

As the annual goes to press, the Presidents have only participated in one game.
